

[PHOTOMASK POSITIONING APPARATUS]

Abstract

A photomask positioning apparatus comprises a positioning device having a base, one end of which comprises a bended fixed portion connected to a bottom of the containing space and the other of which is away from the fixed portion comprises a bended positioning portion such that a photomask can be positioned between the positioning portion set at the two sides of the containing space.